Implications for governance

- Where do we have conversations about the pace and scale of development?
- Within the existing governance framework, what has to change in order to more effectively address cumulative effects in the Yukon?
- How do we make sure immeasurable values aren't overlooked?
- We still have the opportunity to “do it right”, but that window is closing. Where is the political will to address cumulative effects going to come from?

I would love to hear from you!
